

Directors' Biographies

American Friends of the Mandela Rhodes Foundation

Ian Glenday

Mr. Glenday was associated with Federal City Capital Advisors, LLC in Washington DC, advising private equity and international project developers on cross-border investments, and on multilateral agency and export credit agency support. He has provided bank expert witness services in London on arbitration matters related to projects in Eastern Europe and South America. From 1987 he was in New York with Union Bank of Switzerland, later UBS AG, as a managing director for project and export finance. Earlier, he was with UBS in Zurich, Switzerland, and with the World Bank Group International Finance Corporation in Washington DC in various project financing positions.

Mr. Glenday was a founding director of Friends of South African Schools Fund, Inc., a non-profit organization established in 1995, supporting previously disadvantaged high school students.

Mr. Glenday received a BS (Engineering and Applied Science) from Yale University, and a B.Phil. (Management Studies) from Magdalen College, Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar (South African College School.)

Mariette Geldenhuys

Ms. Geldenhuys practices law in the Law Office of Mariette Geldenhuys in Ithaca, New York. Her practice includes collaborative, municipal and transactional law. She served as City Attorney for the City of Ithaca and is the founder of the Ithaca Area Collaborative Law Professionals. She is a member of the National Family Law Advisory Council of the National Center for Lesbian Rights, and a member of the Diversity Task Force of the International Academy of Collaborative Professionals.

Ms. Geldenhuys obtained her law degree from the University of Pretoria in South Africa, before attending New College, Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar from 1984-86.

Ginger Turner

Ginger Turner is Senior Economist and Vice President in Group Strategy at Swiss Reinsurance Company, where her work focuses on catastrophe risk and insurance. Prior to joining the Swiss Re, she was a postdoctoral fellow at the Wharton Business School's Risk Center. With a focus on emerging markets finance, she previously worked in the World Bank Office of the Chief Economist, Goldman Sachs in London, Actis Capital in Johannesburg, as well as Bain & Company in San Francisco. Ginger holds a BA and MS from Stanford University and read for an MPhil and DPhil in Economics at the University of Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar. She is a director of the Texas Lyceum and SMART Family Literacy and is a term member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

David Cohen

Mr. Cohen joined Farallon in 1992 and is one of the founders of Noonday Asset Management, L.P., where as a partner his responsibilities include portfolio management, risk management and strategy.

Before joining Farallon, Mr. Cohen was a vice president at Goldman Sachs. For three years he worked in the corporate finance department and for three years in the merger arbitrage department. When Mr. Cohen left Goldman Sachs, he had oversight responsibility for the international risk arbitrage portfolio.

Mr. Cohen was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University where he graduated with a M.Sc. in Economics and a B.A. in Politics, Philosophy and Economics. Prior to Oxford he was the top graduate in Physiology and Biochemistry with a B.Sc. from the University of Witwatersrand (South Africa).

Renée Hlozek

Dr. Hlozek is the Lyman Spitzer Jr. Postdoctoral Fellow in Theoretical Astrophysics in at Princeton University and the Spitzer-Cotsen Fellow in the Princeton Society of Fellows in the Humanities. In 2011, she received her DPhil in Astrophysics from Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar from the class of South-Africa-at-Large and Christ Church, 2008. Her research focuses on theoretical cosmology; as a member of the Atacama Cosmology Telescope she measures the Cosmic Microwave Background radiation to decipher the initial conditions of the universe. She was named one of the Mail and Guardians 200 Young South Africans for 2012, and is a 2013 TED Fellow.

Trevor Norwitz

Trevor Norwitz is a partner in the law firm of Wachtell, Lipton, Rosen & Katz in New York, teaches at Columbia University Law School, speaks and writes frequently on law and corporate governance topics, and advised on the South African company law reform.

Mr. Norwitz serves on several nonprofit boards, including Advancing Human Rights and chairs the boards of the University of Cape Town Fund and Friends of Ikamva Labantu, which supports grassroots development work in the South African townships. He received his B.Bus.Sc. degree from the University of Cape Town and read law at Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar (SA College and Keble, 1987), before completing a Masters in Law at Columbia.

Garikai Nyaruwata

Garikai Nyaruwata is an associate at Altaris Capital Partners, where his work focuses on investments across the healthcare sector. Prior to joining Altaris, Garikai was an engagement manager in the private equity and healthcare practices of McKinsey & Company, working in its US, South African and Nigerian offices. Garikai has also worked with Deutsche Bank (London), Citibank (Johannesburg), and the Southern Africa Labour and Research Development Unit (SALDRU) (Cape Town). Garikai completed a B.Bus.Sci. in Economics at The University of Cape Town, as a Mandela Rhodes Scholar. He received an M.Sc. in Economics for Development, and an M.Sc. in Financial Economics from Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar.